

NEWS OF THE YEAR 2013

UNM's 2013 Top-10 Research Stories

December 20, 2013

UNM Assistant Professor of Anthropology Sherry V. Nelson's research was nominated as one of UNM's Top-10 research stories of 2013.

Researchers Study Chimpanzee Community Isotopes to Learn About Ancient Food Sources

November 6, 2013

New research led by UNM Assistant Professor of Anthropology Sherry V. Nelson examines carbon and oxygen stable isotopes in the tooth enamel from a chimpanzee community to understand the environment of fossil apes and early humans. Nelson's research, "Chimpanzee fauna isotopes provide new interpretations of fossil ape and hominin ecologies," was recently released and is available to read at The Royal Society.

The passing of Distinguished Professor Emeritus Keith H. Basso

August 15, 2013

The Department reports the passing of Distinguished Professor Emeritus Keith H. Basso on August 4, 2013.

The passing of Dr. John Martin "Jack" Campbell

June 3, 2013

The Department reports the passing of Dr. John Martin "Jack" Campbell on May 28, 2013.

Leslie Spier Distinguished Professor

February 12, 2013

Lawrence G. Straus in the news. Straus is the editor of a newly released book titled, "The Magdalenian Settlement of Europe," co-edited with Thomas Terberger of Universitat Grefswald, Germany and Denise Leesch of Universite de Nauchatel, Switzerland. The book is from the proceedings of a 2011 double symposium at the Bern INQUA Congress on the Magdalenian culture of the late Last Glacial Period. .

The President appoints Lynne Sebastian

January 28, 2013

Lynne Sebastian Adjunct Associate Professor and director of Historic Preservation Programs at SRI Foundation has been chosen to become an Expert Member of the Advisory Council on Historic Preservation (ACHP)