

XLV JOURNAL OF ANTHROPOLOGICAL
RESEARCH
DISTINGUISHED LECTURE

Dr. Elizabeth Ferry

Professor of Anthropology, Brandeis University

Glitter, Grit, and Graphics: How Do the Gold and the Gold Market Look from the Perspective of a Historic Mexican Mining City?

Thursday, November 9, 2017, 7:30 pm
UNM Anthropology Lecture Hall (Room 163)

Specialized Seminar

Materiality and Value in Gold Markets: Mexico,
Colombia, and the UK

Friday, November 10, 2017, 12:00 Noon
Anthropology Rm. 248

Dr. Ferry (Anthropology Ph.D. and M.A. from Johns Hopkins University; B.A. cum laude from Columbia University) is Professor of Anthropology at Brandeis University. She is author or author/editor of four books on commodities in Mexico, author of 15 journal articles and book chapters, as well as of numerous book reviews, comments, popular publications or blogs, and poems. She has presented lectures and papers at many universities and professional meetings in the U.S., Latin America & Europe.

The Anthropology Building is located on Redondo Road, just east of University Blvd. between Martin Luther King & Las Lomas NE. Both events are free & open to the public and both venues are wheelchair-accessible. Please park at metered spaces on the north side of Las Lomas just east of Redondo or along the west edge of the Maxwell Museum parallel to Redondo, unless you have a UNM parking permit. Ticketing unfortunately continues until 8 p.m.

The Journal of Anthropological Research has been published quarterly by the University of New Mexico in the interest of general anthropology since 1945. For subscription information, visit www.journals.uchicago.edu/JAR. For information on the Lecture series, call 505/277-4544.