EMPLOYMENT AND EXPERIENCE

March 2020 – December 2020

Remote Historian, National Collaborative for Women's History Sites, National Votes for Women Trail

The National Votes for Women Trail is a national effort to place at least five roadside historic markers commemorating persons or events significant to the passage of the 19th Amendment in each state and territory in the U.S. This is part of centennial celebrations marking the 1920 passage of the 19th Amendment. My role included archival research with primary documents to identify persons and events eligible for markers, historical research using primary sources to support statements made in marker text, developing marker text, and coordinating with local partners and state coordinators for 12 states, primarily in the Southwest and Southeast regions.

June 2014 – January 2020

Field Director and Historical Archaeologist, Office of Contract Archeology, University of New Mexico

Responsibilities included documentary research, preparation of baseline historic structure documentation, writing professional reports and State and National Register nominations, supervising and planning logistics for small crews during survey and excavation activities, and analyzing results for Section 106 and 110 inventories, developing management recommendations, and analysis of historic artifacts.

Projects included documentation and National Register assessment of Jacona Ranch, a 1930s Pueblo Revival ranch with several residential structures, prepared for the National Trust for Historic Preservation; backcountry survey and post-fire evaluation of sites within Bandelier National Monument; documentation and evaluation of structures and site remains at the Allison coal mining town; Hispanic homestead archival research and historical site documentation; and historical sites documentation in Valles Caldera National Preserve.

July 2012 – June 2014

Archaeologist, Crew Chief, Rio Grande National Forest, CO

Duties included assisting Heritage Program Manager and planning logistics, supervising small crews, and analyzing results for projects for heritage program goals and Section 106 and 110 inventories. Activities included site evaluation, site testing, mapping, monitoring, mitigation and management recommendations, and project reporting. I served as a cultural resources specialist on NEPA interdisciplinary teams to evaluate environmental impacts and as heritage GIS database manager. I assisted with Native American consultation and site visits, and assisted with Service First agreements regarding heritage inventory, evaluation and reporting on Bureau of Land Management lands.
